Join a clinical study to investigate the efficacy and safety of an investigational medication in patients with Alopecia Areata

Investigational medication: PF-06651600 (oral tablets)

Sponsor: Pfizer, Inc.

Link: ClinicalTrials.gov: <https://www.clinicaltrials.gov/ct2/show/NCT03732807?term=B7981015&rank=1>

A clinical research study is currently looking for adolescents and adults with alopecia areata who have lost 50% or more of the hair on their head to participate in a study of an investigational medication. During the course of this study, some people will receive the investigational medication and some will receive an inactive medication called a placebo. The study will explore whether the study drug is safe and can help patients regrow hair. The study drug (different doses) will be compared to an inactive placebo (dummy drug). After 24 weeks, placebo-treated subjects may enter the 24-week extension period and receive active treatment.

You may qualify to participate if you:

- are 12 years of age or older
- have been diagnosed with alopecia areata
- have at least 50% scalp hair loss (confirmed by a study doctor)
- can attend regular clinic visits
